CODE OF ETHICS AND WHISTLEBLOWER POLICY

Companies and their employees are not immune to illegal or unethical behavior. Every week we hear about companies paying stiff fines and damages for their misdeeds. Employees get fired. Executives go to jail. And corporate reputations built up over decades are ruined overnight.

Village Farms International, Inc. and its subsidiaries (“Village Farms”) are committed to the highest standards of ethical conduct. But while talking about ethics is a good start, it isn’t nearly enough. We must also be willing to put our ethics policies into practice.

VILLAGE FARMS INTERNATIONAL, INC. (the “Company”)
CODE OF ETHICS AND WHISTLEBLOWER POLICY (the “Code”)

INTRODUCTION

The goal of Village Farms is to maintain an environment of trust and respect for all of its employees in every area in which it operates. Village Farms’ commitment to honesty and integrity are key factors in its day to day business.

A company’s reputation is an important asset. Good reputations are hard to earn but easy to lose. Good reputations are won every day by each of us and easily lost by any one of us. This is why we have to always do our best to be ethical even in the face of personal and business pressure. It is important that each of us does the right thing day in and day out.

In an environment that is complicated both economically and legally, we must make certain choices about the way we conduct business, from the treatment of our employees to the way we interface with our customers and suppliers, and with local, state, provincial and federal governments. While we have faith in our employees’ ability to know “right” from “wrong” and in making the right choices, determining what to do ethically is not always easy to do.

Most ethical problems appear in the form of dilemmas, where two or more principles or obligations to several interested parties are in conflict. For example, our goal is to serve our customers’ needs. But, if a customer requests that Village Farms act on their behalf in a way that goes against what Village Farms believes is right, the resulting problem – what to do – is an ethical dilemma. Making these difficult decisions is challenging and, often, uncomfortable to do. But it is part of what each of us does every day.

We will not, in the name of profit, compromise our ethical commitments, nor risk violating the laws by which we all live.

But, complying with the law is the minimum. We must do more than that. We must also maintain the appearance of compliance. We know all too well if something looks bad to the public eye, it leads people to believe that “Where there’s smoke, there’s fire”. We can be seriously damaged by any statement or action that creates even an impression that we do not fully support, and comply with, the laws in any part of our business.

To help our employees understand our commitment, we provide information and policy directives on an ongoing basis. This guide, which will be updated as needed from time to time, is a part of the ongoing practice of our company to provide information and policy directives to its employees on matters of importance to our operations.

THE PROGRAM

This guide is part of a comprehensive, corporate wide initiative and program to increase the knowledge, raise the awareness and reinforce Village Farms’ commitment to lawful and ethical behavior.

The program can only be fulfilled by a team effort between the management and employees at all levels. Compliance with the law and ethical behavior is the business and responsibility of each of us, no matter what your job is at Village Farms. We are all responsible. Our commitment must be a shared one.

Compliance and Discipline

Strict compliance with Village Farms’ policies on ethical and lawful business conduct by each of us is mandatory. Violations will not be tolerated and, in accordance with Village Farms’ policies and procedures, may result in one or more of the following; warnings, reprimands, probation, demotion, temporary suspension, reimbursement of Village Farms' losses, damages, discharge or such other actions as may be appropriate.

Willful disregard of Village Farms' policies or criminal statutes may require Village Farms to start legal action against you or refer such violations for criminal prosecution by appropriate law enforcement authorities.

At the time of employment and annually thereafter, executive and senior management, Facility Managers, Sales and Marketing, Logistics, administrative and purchasing personnel will be required to sign a form which acknowledges that they have read and will/have complied with this Code.

The Chief Financial Officer of the Company will have the authority to interpret or make the final determination if any violation has occurred. The Compensation and Corporate Governance Committee of the Company shall approve any material waivers (only in writing) for any ethics issue covered by this Code that are sought by employees of Village Farms and, if delegated by the Village Farms board of directors, any material waivers (only in writing) that are sought by directors or officers of Village Farms. Any waivers granted will be reviewed with Village Farms' board of directors (which may delegate approval of waivers as described above to the Compensation and Corporate Governance Committee).

HOW TO REPORT YOUR CONCERNS

Village Farms is committed to upholding all laws, rules and regulations to which it is subject. We expect all employees to uphold these laws, rules, and regulations, as well as all Village Farms' policies. This commitment places several responsibilities on employees.

How to Report Alleged Violations

You should address concerns, in writing, about activities, which you believe may involve criminal conduct or violations of our policies and procedures, with your immediate supervisor. In most instances, discussions with your supervisor will clear up the concern or clarify the issue for you.

If for any reason you are not comfortable bringing such concerns to your supervisor or manager, first approach your manager's manager. If this presents a conflict or you are not satisfied with this, you may use alternative resources. These resources include:

- Your department or facility head;
- Your local Human Resource representative;
- The Corporate Management.

All reports should be made in compliance with the Whistleblower provisions of this Code (see Part II of this Code).

Obligation to Come Forward

All employees have an obligation to come forward if they believe in good faith that a policy, company operation, or practice is in violation of a law or regulation, or if any such activities are being considered.

Examples of such conduct would be violations related to environmental laws, health and safety laws, theft, bribes and kickbacks and conflicts of interest to name a few. You must come forward if:

- You have been asked to perform an activity or practice, which you believe violates a law, regulation, or company policy.

- You believe that another employee is violating or is about to violate a law, regulation, or company policy.

Each employee will be treated fairly and respectfully. Village Farms will protect the anonymity of such employees to the fullest extent practicable. Village Farms will protect its employees from adverse consequences that may result from fulfilling their obligations. Therefore, Village Farms will not discharge, suspend, demote, or take adverse employment action against an employee who believes and communicates in good faith that a policy or practice is in violation of laws, rules or regulations, unless the employee has been a willful participant in the wrongdoing, or has allowed or encouraged the violation to occur. This policy is intended to encourage employees to come forward and report violations.

Self-reporting of Violations

Village Farms encourages its employees to disclose their own violation of law, regulation or company policy. In the case of employees who self-report a violation, Village Farms will work with that employee to deal with the problem created by the conduct.

Village Farms will apply discipline in a fair and equitable manner, and will otherwise conduct itself in a manner consistent with Village Farms' obligations and responsibility.

There are federal statutes and some state and provincial laws, which prohibit retaliation against an employee for bringing complaints and/or provide "whistleblower" protection to such employee. Village Farms complies with the protections and procedures required by these laws.

Submission of False Reports

Employees who do not act in good faith, and who misuse or abuse the rights and responsibilities outlined in this guide by knowingly submitting a false or malicious report, will not be protected and will be disciplined.

HUMAN RESOURCE POLICIES

Equal Employment

In all matters related to the organization of work and development, decisions of hiring, supervision, work assignments, compensation, promotion and termination, will be based on an individual's demonstrated abilities and performance and in accordance with the laws of the particular individual's jurisdiction of employment. Discrimination will be prohibited against employees on grounds that are in accordance with laws applicable to their jurisdiction.

Drug and Alcohol Free Program

Village Farms is committed to maintaining a drug and alcohol free workplace. Village Farms will provide a safe and healthy working environment for all its employees with the expectation that all employees will discharge their duties at an acceptable performance level and be unimpaired by drug and alcohol use.

Drug and alcohol use by an employee can endanger the employee's safety, the safety of other employees, and other persons with whom they interact.

Discrimination and Harassment

We are committed to maintaining a work environment that is free from discrimination and harassment, both in the workplace or in any relationships with companies who do business with or for Village Farms.

SAFETY

We strive and are committed to provide our employees with a healthy, safe and productive environment. The Occupational Safety and Health Act in the United States and the applicable workplace safety and insurance legislation and occupational health and safety legislation in the provinces of Canada in which they carry on business regulate both physical safety and exposure to conditions in the workplace that could harm employees.

The place of employment is to be free of recognized hazards that might cause injury or death as well as be in compliance with specific safety and health standards.

We are committed to providing safe working conditions for our employees. Our safety objectives are to prevent employees, visitors, and customers, or persons residing or working near one of our facilities from being subjected to any avoidable health or safety risk.

You have the responsibility to your fellow employees and to the company to carry out your duties in a safe and efficient manner. Safety consciousness must always exist in your thinking and planning. You are encouraged to demonstrate leadership ability by setting a good example.

Through teamwork we can eliminate potential hazards. To accomplish this, you must report any unsafe conditions and immediately correct any unsafe acts observed or performed. Our employees are our most important assets, and with our combined effort we can achieve the goal of zero accidents.

GIFTS AND UNLAWFUL PAYMENTS

Private Sector Gifts Made By or To Employee

In general, gifts given to or received from employees of companies doing business with each other should be consistent with normally accepted business practice, and comply with the policies of the organization employing the recipient. Gifts in the form of cash, stocks, bonds or similar items must not be given or received by a Village Farms' employee regardless of value.

Village Farms' employees are not allowed to accept or solicit gifts, entertainment or favors beyond that of a merely token value from anyone with whom they do business or may do business on behalf of Village Farms.

Gifts totaling more than $50.00 in your local currency from any one supplier or customer may not be accepted in any year.

Acceptance of perishable or other gifts, of a nominal value, such as advertising or promotional materials or plaques clearly marked with company logos, is not considered improper.

Giving or receiving reasonable business meals or the exchange of gifts or favors about the same approximate nominal value between Village Farms' employees and suppliers or contractors are not considered improper when this does not occur often, does not involve a lot of money, and takes place in settings appropriate to the business at hand.

Attempts to Influence Decision Making

Village Farms' employees are not allowed to make or offer any payment or provide to any non-employee, any benefit (including complimentary merchandise or service) of a value or nature or under such circumstances that might be considered an attempt to influence such non-employee's decisions or actions. Third parties include any actual or potential customer, supplier, competitor or consultant.

Usual and customary customer entertainment is not prohibited by this Code.

Bribes, Kickbacks or Other Unlawful Payments

Bribes, kickbacks, illegal payments in the form of cash, loans or gifts, and the solicitation of such payments, made to or by Village Farms' employees are strictly prohibited.

Gratuities and Bribes Relating to Government Employees

It is against the law to give bribes or gratuities to government employees. A bribe occurs when a thing of value is offered or given to a government employee with the specific intent to affect a particular action, e.g., obtain a government contract. A gratuity generally consists of the giving or offer to give a thing of value without asking for improper action on the part of the government employee, but with the hope of improving the future relationship between the parties.

CUSTOMERS AND SUPPLIERS

All suppliers, potential suppliers and customers should be treated equitably, fairly, courteously and in a professional manner.

All pricing and other information received from a supplier or customer must be treated carefully. Such information should not be shared with other suppliers not made known within Village Farms to a large number of employees. Supplier information should not be left uncovered on a desktop or in any place that might be considered public.

If an attempt is made by a supplier, potential supplier, customer or other party to compromise or otherwise unduly influence an award of business, you must immediately report it to your supervisor or manager. If you are approached with such an offer, courteously refuse it, indicating that Village Farms does not conduct business in that manner, and then report the incident to your supervisor or manager.

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

A conflict of interest exists when your duty to give undivided business loyalty to Village Farms can be prejudiced by actual or potential personal benefits being derived from another source. You should not cause Village Farms or yourself to have a conflict of interest.

You are expected to avoid any investment, interest, association or relationship, which interferes or might interfere with your independent exercise of judgement in Village Farms' best interest.

It's up to you to avoid situations where your loyalty may become divided. A conflict of interest occurs when you allow any interest, activity or influence outside of Village Farms to:

- influence your judgment when acting on behalf of Village Farms;
- compete against Village Farms in any business activity;
- divert business from Village Farms;
- diminish the efficiency with which you perform your regular duties; or
- harm Village Farms' reputation.

Duty to Disclose/Conflicts of Interest

Disclosures of personal interest or other circumstances involving suppliers, lenders or customers, which might constitute a conflict of interest, are to be made promptly by you, in writing, to your immediate supervisor and/or to your manager. Your manager will arrange for resolution in a manner best suited to the interests of Village Farms with a reasonable view to your needs. It is essential to keep in mind that when you are faced with a possible conflict of interest, prompt and full disclosure is the correct and the necessary first step in resolving the issue.

CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

As an employee, you may have knowledge of or possess confidential information about the private or business affairs of Village Farms and its customers and suppliers. Such information shall be held in the strictest confidence. In addition to the obligations set out below, each employee is subject to the Village Farms Confidential Information and Invention Assignment Agreement applicable to the employee's jurisdiction of employment, attached hereto as Appendices A and B. As the Company is a publicly traded company, Canadian securities laws apply to the communication and misuse of material undisclosed information concerning the Company. Employees, officers and directors of Village Farms are subject to the Village Farms Disclosure and Insider Trading Policy, and you must familiarize yourself with its requirements.

Confidential information includes all non-public information that might be of use to competitors, or harmful to Village Farms or its Shareholders, if disclosed. Confidential information is also any non-public information provided by a third party with the expectation that such information would be kept confidential and used only for the business purpose for which it was provided. "Non-public information" is information that is not generally available to the investing public, either through a press release, disclosure to unitholders or widely reported media coverage. The circulation of rumors, or "talk on the street", even if accurate, is not considered public disclosure. Documents containing sensitive information should be handled carefully and properly secured at all times.

Confidential information can include engineering, design and other technical information as well as manufacturing know-how, processes and production schedules but can also include knowledge of transactions or events regarding Village Farms that have not been made public. If you are unsure about whether certain information is confidential, talk to your supervisor or manager.

Except where it is authorized or legally required, all management and employees must keep confidential, and use only for company purposes and not use for themselves or other persons including relatives or friends, all information concerning Village Farms or its business that is not generally available to the investing public. Information is considered to be public if it has been disclosed in an annual report, annual information form, management information circular, press release or interim reports. The obligation to keep certain information confidential applies both during appointment or employment with Village Farms, and after termination of appointment, or employment, including on retirement.

Confidential information must not be passed on to other Village Farms employees who do not need such information to perform their jobs or provide services to or for Village Farms. If there is to be a disclosure to Village Farms or disclosure by Village Farms to a third party of proprietary and/or confidential information of any kind, contact your supervisor or manager before proceeding.

Disclosure of confidential information can be harmful to Village Farms and could be the basis for legal action against Village Farms, the employee and/or the member of management responsible for the disclosure.

Trade Secrets of Former Employers

It is our policy and practice to respect the legally protected trade secrets of others. If you have knowledge of trade secrets of a former employer, you are not to reveal any such information to Village Farms that might reasonably be considered a trade secret of a former employer. If any questions should arise in this area, your manager should be consulted for guidance.

PRIVACY HANDLING OF PERSONAL INFORMATION

Each employee, including each member of management must handle personal information of clients, employees and other individuals, in accordance with Village Farms' privacy policies and any applicable laws. This includes, but is not limited to, the collection, use, disclosure, storage, transfer and disposal of any personal information. Any questions regarding these issues should be addressed to your local Human Resources representative.

Note that personal information may be accessed or stored in the United States and Canada and may be subject to the applicable laws.

REPORTING OF INFORMATION

All record keeping, reporting of information and records must be accurate, complete, honest, timely and the information and data in such records must be a fair representation of the facts.

The knowing or deliberate falsification of any documents may be the basis for immediate discharge and may subject an employee to civil and criminal sanctions as well. This includes information reported on forms such as insurance forms, quality assurance reports, environmental monitoring reports and time cards.

Dishonest reporting of information to organizations and people outside the company, including false or artificial entries in books and records is strictly prohibited. It could lead to civil or criminal liability for you and Village Farms. This includes not only reporting information inaccurately but also organizing it in a way that is intended to mislead or misinform those who receive it.

Village Farms will not tolerate any form of questionable and illegal intelligence gathering such as industrial espionage, burglary, wiretapping, and stealing.

Hiring a competitor's employees to get confidential information is unacceptable as well. Improper solicitation of confidential information from a competitor's employees or from Village Farms' customers is unlawful, and could expose Village Farms to claims for damages.

FINANCIAL RECORDS AND PERIODIC REPORTS

Village Farms is committed to full, fair, accurate, timely and understandable disclosure in reports and documents that are filed on public record. In support of this commitment, Village Farms has designed and implemented internal disclosure controls and procedures. You must familiarize yourself with Village Farms' disclosure controls and procedures.

Our books and records must reflect in reasonable detail all our transactions in a timely and accurate manner in order to, among other things, permit the preparation of accurate financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. All assets and liabilities of Village Farms must be recorded as necessary to maintain accountability for them.

All business transactions must be properly authorized. All transactions must be supported by accurate documentation in reasonable detail and recorded properly in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and Village Farms' established financial policies. The recorded value for assets must be compared to the existing assets at reasonable intervals and appropriate action taken with respect to any differences.

Village Farms' independent auditors must be given full access to all information necessary for them to properly conduct any audit. Falsification of any record is strictly prohibited and will not be tolerated.

Any retention or disposal of records must occur in accordance with established policies and applicable legal and regulatory requirements.

INSIDER TRADING

You should not purchase or sell securities of Village Farms with knowledge of material non-public information. Material information is information (a) relating to the business of Village Farms or any of its parts that results in, or would be reasonably be expected to result in, a significant change in the market price or value of the Company's shares; or (b) for which there is a reasonable likelihood that its disclosure would be considered significant by a reasonable investor in making an investment decision. If you are not sure whether information is material or "non-public", consult with the Company's Chief Executive Office or Chief Financial Officer for guidance before engaging in any transaction in Village Farms' securities.

You are also prohibited from disclosing material "non-public information" about Village Farms to other people, such as relatives or friends. Securities laws prohibit any such disclosure unless it is made in the necessary course of business. In addition, you should not trade in puts and calls relating to Village Farms' securities without approval from the Company's Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer.

For more information on insider trading, you should consult the full text of the Disclosure and Insider Trading Policy.

MEDIA RELATIONS

Most of the time, reporters contact Management. Occasionally, however, a reporter may contact an employee asking for information about Village Farms. Any information provided could well be interpreted as an official Village Farms response and published as such. Therefore, it is vital that comments to the press be made only by designated spokespeople, with the participation of Management.

PROTECTION AND PROPER USE OF VILLAGE FARMS' ASSETS AND OPPORTUNITIES

You are expected to commit your best efforts to Village Farms' success, to act prudently in your use of Village Farms' property and other resources, and to preserve and protect Village Farms' tangible and intangible assets for their productive use in our business. We all have a responsibility to protect and safeguard Village Farms' assets from loss, theft, misuse and waste.

Village Farms' property should never be used for personal gain, and you should not allow Village Farms' property to be used for illegal activities. Village Farms' property should be used only for legitimate business purposes. If you become aware of theft, misuse or waste of our assets or funds or have any questions about your proper use of them, you should speak with your supervisor or manager or disclose your concern in accordance with the Whistleblower Policy.

PROTECTING OUR ENVIRONMENT

Our responsibilities as good corporate citizens in the United States and Canada extend beyond designing, producing and selling products of superior quality. Village Farms is also committed to protecting the environment in all areas of the Village Farms' operations, thereby preserving the quality of life of our employees, customers, and neighbors throughout the United States and Canada.

It is the policy of Village Farms to adhere to environmental law as it relates to our products, our packaging and our operations. Developing and implementing this policy is a commitment of management and a shared responsibility with our employees.

COMPLIANCE WITH LAWS

Many of Village Farms' activities are subject to complex and changing laws, rules and regulations. Ignorance of the law is not, in general, a defense to an action for contravention. We expect Management and employees to make every reasonable effort to become familiar with laws, rules and regulations affecting their activities and to exert due diligence in complying with these laws, rules and regulations and, to ensure that those individuals reporting to them are also aware of these laws, rules and regulations. If you are ever in doubt, you must seek advice from your immediate supervisor or the Compensation and Corporate Governance Committee of the Company's board of directors. Village Farms complies with all laws, rules and regulations of the countries within which it does business.

Antitrust/Competition Laws

Village Farms has a firm policy of fully complying with all United States and Canadian antitrust and competition laws. These laws have been in effect for many years, and are the foundation upon which our free and competitive market system is built.

Our management favors the vigorous enforcement of these laws, especially since without them, Village Farms never may have had the opportunity to grow into the successful company it is today.

Often questions will arise as to a specific course of conduct and the applicability of the antitrust laws to it. Whenever anyone, at any level of the company, encounters a situation which he or she believes might have some antitrust or competition law or other legal implication, timely advice should be requested from Village Farms' management.

As an example of antitrust or competition law matter, if an attempt is made by a supplier, potential supplier, customer or other party to compromise or otherwise unduly influence an award of business, you must immediately report it to your supervisor or manager. This is discussed under "Customer and Suppliers" in this Code.

USE OF E-MAIL, INTERNET, TELEPHONE AND OTHER FORMS OF COMMUNICATION

Village Farms has all right, title and interest in the information contained on our computer networks. Village Farms therefore retains the right to control access to these resources, as well as monitor and review usage. You are responsible for ensuring that electronic devices and services, including, but not limited to, computer-related equipment, products or services that you have access to are used in an appropriate manner at all times. The use of telephone, electronic mail, voicemail, the Internet, and other computer-related products and services are provided for business purposes and may be used in accordance with this Code and are subject to monitoring and review by Village Farms.

Every employee who uses a computer is responsible for protection of information. This applies at all times, whether you are using a company computer or accessing Village Farms' systems in a company office, an outside location, or while traveling.

General Use

All Village Farms' issued telephones and computer systems, including, but not limited to, computers, laptops, servers, networks, mainframes, cellular phones, electronic communication devices, pagers and personal digital assistants are property of Village Farms. The purpose of these systems is to conduct Village Farms' business. Village Farms' systems are not to be used where such use would conflict with your obligations to Village Farms, whether to solicit others for commercial ventures or otherwise. Further, the systems must not be used in any way that would violate any Village Farms' policy, including Village Farms' policies against discrimination and harassment (for example, by the transmittal or accessing of offensive material of any kind (sexual jokes, stories, material, etc.)). You have the responsibility to operate all computer resources in a professional, lawful, and ethical manner and to comply with all applicable laws, rules and regulations.

Use of electronic communications must conform to business standards and policies, including the electronic security standards and privacy policies set by Village Farms. Occasional and limited use of Village Farms' systems for personal reasons, such as telephone calls to family, is permissible provided such personal use does not violate Village Farms' policy or law, interfere with your job responsibilities or minimum hours of work or overburden company resources on an individual or aggregate basis. Village Farms reserves the right to terminate your right to use Village Farms' systems for personal communications and to take further appropriate employment action, including termination of employment for cause, if in the judgment and sole discretion of Village Farms, such personal use of company systems is inappropriate.

All documents, data, and information, and any e-mail or other forms of electronic messages, composed, sent, stored and received on or over Village Farms' systems are the property of Village Farms. Village Farms reserves the right, and as a condition of your employment you agree that Village Farms has reserved such right, to monitor all information systems without prior notice. This includes, but is not limited to, the telephone and computer systems, voicemail, websites (internet and intranet), and e-mail systems to prevent abuses or misuses, or for any other legitimate business reason. Since information technology resources are the property of Village Farms, you are advised that there is no expectation of privacy while using these systems. Appropriate disciplinary action will be taken against you if you violate Village Farms' policies, including termination of employment for cause and/or legal action, as set forth in applicable provincial, state and federal laws.

Use of Village Farms' systems must be in compliance with all of the applicable laws and regulations of your jurisdiction of employment. Compliance includes ensuring that proper licensing agreements are in effect, and that copyrights and other intellectual property rights are not being infringed. Any questions regarding these issues should be addressed to your immediate supervisor.

The absolute authenticity, confidentiality, and integrity of electronic communications cannot be guaranteed, whether transmitted over the Internet or through the e-mail or voicemail systems. These systems accommodate the use of security passwords and firewalls to improve their reliability for maintaining confidentiality, which you should use as appropriate. It should be noted that even when a message is erased, it may still be possible to recreate the message.

E-mail and Voicemail

In order not to overload the voicemail and e-mail systems, and to maintain orderly records, local administrators limit the size and/or the amount of messages that can be maintained. Subpoenas and other legal document requests usually require production of electronically stored documents and records.

You are prohibited from distributing chain letters, jokes and other non-business related materials through e-mail or voicemail systems which are contrary to any provision of this Code or the applicable laws and regulations of your jurisdiction of employment.

E-mail, like other forms of electronic communication, is susceptible to misdirection and may be misaddressed. Information of a highly sensitive nature should be sent by electronic means with great care. Addresses of messages should be checked, and sensitive documents should be password protected or encrypted prior to sending.

Cellular Telephones

It is your responsibility to comply with applicable law in connection with the use of cellular phones and other electronic communication devices. This Code applies to the business use of cellular phones and other electronic communication equipment while operating a motor vehicle, whether or not the equipment is issued to you by Village Farms and whether or not you are operating Village Farms' or your own vehicle. It is your responsibility to safely operate a motor vehicle, to safely operate electronic communication equipment and to know and comply with the applicable laws regarding the use of electronic equipment while operating a vehicle, which may require, for example, the use of a "hands free" device. Any questions regarding applicable law should be addressed to your immediate supervisor.

Password Usage

One of Village Farms' most valuable assets is the information stored on the Village Farms' network and computer systems. The confidentiality and integrity of data stored on Village Farms' systems must be protected. The use of passwords and the implementation of password controls ensures that access is limited only to authorized personnel. Passwords provide the entry checkpoint to all computer resources. You have the responsibility to create passwords which are not easily revealed and to periodically change passwords to protect your individual accounts. You must keep passwords private to prevent unauthorized access.

Internet Usage

Keep in mind that all information posted on the Internet is published material; nothing is "off the record". The proliferation of negative or careless E-mail, news, or bulletin board messages can be damaging to Village Farms. Therefore, only Village Farms' authorized spokespersons may author material on the Internet that contains information about Village Farms (including any of Village Farms' units and affiliates) or any of its products, respond to E-mail or reply to a bulletin board on behalf of Village Farms. If you find or receive negative information about Village Farms on any news group bulletin board or a mail list, you should not reply but immediately contact your immediate supervisor.

All uses of the Internet must be in compliance with all applicable laws and regulations. Compliance includes, but is not limited to, ensuring that proper licensing agreements are in effect, ensuring proper use of copyrights or other proprietary rights to prevent infringement and ensuring that advertising meets applicable regulations. Any questions regarding compliance issues should be addressed to your immediate supervisor.

Any Village Farms' computer that has an Internet connection must also have up-to-date virus software installed and running. For more information about virus protection, contact your local IT Department.

WHISTLEBLOWER POLICY

National Instrument 52-110 – “Audit Committees” sets out the responsibilities of the audit committee including that the audit committee must establish procedures for:

- (a) the receipt, retention and treatment of complaints that are received by the issuer regarding accounting, internal accounting controls, or auditing matters, and
- (b) the confidential, anonymous submission by employees of the issuer of concerns regarding questionable accounting and auditing matters.

As a reporting issuer in Canada, the integrity of the financial and other information of the Company is vital. Village Farms recognizes the necessity of transparency and accountability in its administration and management practices. As such, Village Farms is committed to providing a work environment in which its employees, officers, consultants, managers and directors can, when based on a reasonable belief, raise concerns over accounting/audit matters, potential violations of laws or internal policies or misconduct, without fear of discrimination, retaliation, threats or harassment. The purpose of this “Whistleblower Policy” is to provide Village Farms’ employees, officers, consultants, managers and directors with a mechanism by which they can raise these concerns.

Scope

This policy is designed to cover all concerns relating to any accounting, internal control or auditing matters, including, without limitation, the following:

1. Violations of law, including any rule or policy of the Ontario Securities Commission, the securities regulators of other jurisdictions in which Village Farms is a reporting issuer, the Toronto Stock Exchange, and the laws and regulations of any jurisdiction in which Village Farms operates;
2. Violations of Village Farms’ Code;
3. Violations of, or deficiencies in, Village Farms’ accounting policies and internal accounting control systems;
4. Other matters, such as deficiencies in Village Farms’ internal accounting controls, which in the good faith belief of the individual could cause harm to the business, a securityholder or the public position/perception of Village Farms, especially if the matter relates to a deviation from full and fair reporting of Village Farms’ financial condition including any attempt to fraudulently influence, coerce, manipulate or mislead Village Farms’ auditors;
5. Any attempt to conceal a potential violation or evidence of a potential violation; or
6. Any retaliation for any good faith report, complaint or other disclosure made pursuant to this policy.

Receipt of Complaints or Concerns

You may submit any complaints or concerns arising under this policy through one of the following channels:

1. Your immediate supervisor; or
2. Directly to your local Human Resources representative by telephone, email or in writing.

If you feel uncomfortable approaching your supervisor with your concern, or if you believe it is inappropriate to raise your complaint or report of a violation through the above-listed channels, you can write directly to the Chair of the Audit Committee of the Company or the Chief Financial Officer with respect to financial issues, or to the Chief Executive Officer on all other matters.

All complaints and concerns will be taken seriously and kept confidential except to the extent information is required to be disclosed in the investigation process as described in this policy, or is required by law.

If you identify yourself when raising a complaint or concern, your name will not be disclosed unless you consent or unless the law requires such disclosure. However, if you raise a complaint or concern and after an investigation it is determined that the complaint was made maliciously or recklessly your identity may be disclosed.

Village Farms will treat all complaints or concerns received as confidential and privileged to the fullest extent permitted by law. Village Farms will exercise particular care to keep confidential the identity of any individual making a complaint under this policy until a formal investigation is launched. Thereafter, the identity of the individual will be kept confidential, unless such confidentiality is incompatible with a fair investigation, there is an overriding reason for identifying or otherwise disclosing the identity of the individual or the law requires such disclosure. In this instance, the individual will be informed in advance of his or her being identified. Where disciplinary proceedings are invoked against any individual under this policy, Village Farms will normally require the name of the person who made the complaint to be disclosed to the person subject to such proceedings.

Treatment of Complaint

Upon receiving a complaint, the receiving party will immediately deliver a copy of the complaint to your local Human Resources representative, who will retain a log of all complaints or concerns. This log will be maintained in a manner that protects the confidentiality of the sender. Your local Human Resources representative will, when possible, acknowledge receipt to the sender and will expeditiously determine whether or not to commence an investigation of the complaint.

Notwithstanding the above paragraph, if a complaint relates to the alleged conduct of a director or executive officer of Village Farms, or allegations of any accounting or financial reporting irregularity or impropriety, the complaint will be referred immediately to the Audit Committee of the Company for investigation.

If you are not satisfied with the actions taken by your local Human Resources representative, you can report the matter to the Chair of the Audit Committee (whose contact information is listed at the end of this policy). The Audit Committee will then make a preliminary investigation of the facts alleged and may, in its discretion, request that your local Human Resources representative, in consultation with the Chief Financial Officer, investigate further and report to the Audit Committee within a specified period of time. The Chief Financial Officer may appoint another person to undertake the preliminary investigation provided that the findings and conclusions of that person will be reported to, and endorsed by, the Chief Executive Officer before the report is made to the Audit Committee.

If on preliminary examination by your local Human Resources representative, the Chief Financial Officer or the Audit Committee, the concern, issue or facts raised are considered to be without substance or merit, the matter will be dismissed and the individual who raised the concern will be informed of the decision and the reasons for such dismissal. If it is considered that the issue(s) have merit, the matter will be dealt with in accordance with this policy, the normal disciplinary procedures and/or as otherwise may be deemed appropriate according to the nature of the case. The outcome of the investigation will be reported to the individual who raised the concern.

You are obliged to cooperate with investigations relating to complaints and you must always be truthful and forthcoming in the course of these investigations.

Reporting of Complaints/Concerns

Your local Human Resources representative or any person designated by your local Human Resources representative in consultation with the Chief Financial Officer, will make periodic reports to the Audit Committee of the following:

1. The number of complaints made and a brief summary of the nature of the complaints;
2. The number of investigations commenced in response to complaints;
3. The number and nature of wrongdoings discovered; and
4. All actions taken in response to wrongdoings discovered through any complaints, including any disciplinary action.

Review

This policy will be reviewed annually by the Audit Committee after consultation with the senior officers of the Company and/or other individuals as deemed necessary to ensure the effectiveness of the policy, to maintain compliance with federal, provincial, state or local regulations and to minimize the likelihood of improper investigations.

Retaliation

Section 425.1 of the Criminal Code of Canada and Section 1107 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 make it an offence to retaliate against an employee that reports wrongdoing to a person who is responsible for the enforcement or reporting of federal, or provincial laws.

No employee, officer, consultant, manager or director who in good faith raises a complaint or concern pursuant to this policy will suffer harassment, retaliation or adverse employment consequence. Good faith means that the person raising the complaint or concern believes that the information that he or she is providing is truthful. An employee, officer, manager or director who retaliates against someone who has made a report pursuant to this policy in good faith, is subject to discipline up to and including termination of office and employment or appointment. Any acts of retaliation should be immediately reported to the individual's immediate supervisor or your local Human Resources representative.
